

Aluminum Storm Panels

Hurricane panels are manufactured from high strength alloys and tempers to protect the costliest investment of your lifetime, YOUR HOME.

- ❑ Unlike plywood, Aluminum storm panels can be re-used and are weather resistant. Ideal for any home.
- ❑ Easily stackable in a garage or shed these panels save on storage space.
- ❑ So light-weight, the panels can be lifted into place within minutes.

All of our Storm Panels cover 12 inches each and can span a height of up to 10 feet without braces or stiffeners. They are produced from lexan and aluminum. Our roll formed panels come pre-punched and cut-to-length.

All of the panels are stackable to minimize storage space when not in use. The panels require a dry place for storage, usually a garage, carport or shed.

Storm panels are considered one of the most economical choices for hurricane and storm protection. They offer substantial protection at a lower cost of other storm protection products.

Clear polycarbonate panels are the most expensive type of panel. Aluminum panels are lightweight and very simple to install.

Clear Lexan Panels

CODE APPROVED

All of our storm protection products meet or exceed local building codes. These panels also meet insurance requirements and some insurance companies may qualify you for a discount. Check with your insurance provider to find out.

For more information on any of our products or services please visit us on the Web at:
www.msdoorways.com

You can't beat the durability of the G.E. LEXAN® material that we use for our Clear Panels. They are totally clear, which lets light in and allows you to see out during the storm.

Install standard aluminum panels and add 1 clear panel per room or per window. This can save money and still allow a little light into your space.

Features

-  Clear and Super Light-Weight
-  Code Approved Protection
-  Installs Quickly and Easily
-  Works on nearly all applications
-  Mix and match with aluminum panels

Call Now To Set Up A Free Estimate For Your Storm Panel Installation.

Be Sure to Visit Our Website For Specials And Coupons Updated Frequently.

